Newsletter of the Bureau of Police Research and Development, Ministry of Home Affairs, Govt. of India

Hon'ble MoS (Home) Sh. Nityanand Rai, DG BPR&D Sh. Balaji Srivastava, ADG Sh. Neeraj Sinha, Director-NPM, Sh. Tajender Luthra and Director-Modernisation, Sh. Karuna Sagar at the 3rd National Conference of Micro Missions at BPR&D Hqrs., New Delhi

Message

The September-December quarter offered little by way of relief from the rigours of the pandemic. Owing to the spread of the Omicron variant, online sessions, masking, and physical distancing remained the norm for much of the period under review. Supported by its ever willing and committed members and stakeholders, the BPR&D, persisted with its endeavours, the unfavourable ambient environment, notwithstanding.

As you might witness in the pages within, each of the Divisions of the Bureau, kept up the good work of researching, capacity building and facilitating the meeting of minds across the domain of Policing and Correctional Administration.

True to its credo, the Bureau took the delights of the festive season, the severity of the cold weather and the threat of the pandemic in its stride, and remained engaged with developments of professional interest.

As the oft repeated cliché goes, if the winter is here can spring be far behind....! It is in that spirit of hope and expectation that we look forward to the next quarter. Together, we shall overcome these trying times.

Here's wishing the Indian Police family a pleasant and fulfilling 2022!
